

I. GENERAL PROVISIONS

MINISTRY FOR SOCIAL RIGHTS AND 2030 AGENDA

15553 Royal Decree 573/2023 of 4 July establishing the Intercountry Adoption Regulation

Royal Decree 165/2019 of 22 March establishing the Intercountry Adoption Regulation involved the implementation of amendments introduced by Law 54/2007 of 28 December on Intercountry Adoption by Law 26/2015 of 28 July modifying the system for the protection of children and adolescents.

Once this Intercountry Adoption Regulation had been adopted, the Government of Catalonia submitted to the Constitutional Court a possible conflict of jurisdiction concerning certain articles, the single transitory provision and the first final provision of Royal Decree 165/2019.

In this regard, the relevant Constitutional Court judgment (STC 36/2021 of 18 February) appeared in the Official Journal (BOE) on 22 March 2021, partially recognising a conflict of jurisdiction between central and regional government. Consequently certain articles of the text were declared unconstitutional.

It is therefore necessary to repeal Royal Decree 165/2019 in order to comply with that ruling, and to adapt the regulation to constitutional requirements and thereby avoid the adverse consequences of a lack of harmonisation in current legislation on intercountry adoption.

Thus, inter alia, the view taken by the Constitutional Court must be noted in particular as regards accreditation. According to the Court, both the accreditation of bodies acting as intermediaries in intercountry adoption and the functions instrumental or related thereto are manifestations of the executive responsibilities of regional government in the field of social services and child protection. Accordingly, although these are evidently liable to state coordination in keeping with foreign policy guidelines, they cannot be abstracted from the sphere of action of regional government and attributed to state bodies without infringing the distribution of responsibilities provided by the Constitution and in regional statutes of autonomy.

Moreover, the judgment finds an infringement in the single transitory provision of Royal Decree 165/2019, where in its sections 1, 2 and 3 it provides a procedure for accreditation by a state entity of bodies that have been previously accredited by regional governments, under the regulation prior to the revision of Law 54/2007 in 2015.

However, in accordance with consolidated doctrine and as required by the constitutional principle of legal certainty (Article 9.3 of the Spanish Constitution), the declarations of unconstitutionality and invalidity contained in the judgment shall not affect consolidated legal situations, and those established by final administrative decisions must be regarded as such, as well as those which have been settled in judicial proceedings by a decision with the force of res judicata (Article 40.1 of Organic Law 2/1979 of 3 October on the Constitutional Court; STC 40/2019 of 27 March, FJ 7).

The principles underlying this Royal Decree are the protection of the child's best interests in every phase of the intercountry adoption process, a respect for fundamental rights recognised by international law in the sphere, and, accordingly, enhanced safeguards for preventing any unlawful practice contrary to the principles of the Convention on Protection of Children and Co-operation in Respect of Intercountry Adoption, done at The Hague on 29 May 1993 and ratified by Spain on June 20 1995. Moreover, account is taken of the protection of the interests of prospective adoptive parents.

This Royal Decree consists of one article, one additional provision, one transitory provision, one repeal provision and three final provisions, and is followed by the International Adoption Regulations, structured in six chapters, whose contents develop key aspects of the procedures for intercountry adoption along with the creation of a National Register of Accredited Bodies for Intercountry Adoption and of Complaints and Incidents.

Chapter I refers to the object of the regulation, to the parties which, according to their responsibilities, are assigned functions in the field of intercountry adoption, to their general principles of action, and to the general rules of the various procedures.

Chapter II deals with the initiation and suspension of the processing of adoptions in the child's country of origin. This is a responsibility that Law 54/2007 gives to national government in that it affects foreign policy, and this chapter lays down the procedure for such proceedings.

Chapter III provides for the establishment and distribution of intercountry adoption applications. In this regard, criteria are set forth for establishing the number of adoption applications to be processed annually, along with the procedure and criteria for the distribution of applications to be processed through a public entity or by an accredited body.

The criteria to be considered when the process is initiated with a particular country shall be the country's intercountry adoption needs, the profile of the adoptable children and the number of adoptions made by third countries, along with the country's situation in terms of socio-political stability and legal certainty, as described in reports drawn up by international bodies.

Chapter IV deals with accredited bodies acting as intermediaries in intercountry adoption, providing that these shall be active in the whole country and offer services to prospective adoptive parents that are habitually resident in Spain. This provision allows prospective adoptive parents to freely choose the accredited body which they wish to make the adoption with, with no need for prior authorisation by the public entities concerned, as had been the case to date.

Chapter V, divided in turn into four sections, deals with the accreditation of bodies for intermediation in intercountry adoptions, regulating the requirements for such accreditation, the procedure for establishing a maximum number of bodies, the withdrawal of accreditation, cooperation or mergers between bodies, the basic model contract between bodies accredited for intercountry adoption and prospective adoptive parents, and the monitoring and control of the activities of accredited bodies.

Finally, chapter VI regulates the National Register of Accredited Bodies for Intercountry Adoption and of Complaints and Incidents. This registers shall be unitary for the whole country and shall have two sections: a first section devoted to the registration of accredited bodies, which shall be public, general in nature and free of charge, and a second section for the registration of complaints and incidents, with access and processing of information subject to the provisions of applicable legislation on personal data protection.

This Royal Decree complies with the principles of good regulation set out in Article 129 of Law 39/2015 of 1 October on Common Administrative Procedure in Public Administration:

a) The principle of necessity is evident, as this Royal Decree is enacted in compliance with Constitutional Court Judgment 36/2021 of 18 February.

b) The principle of efficacy is fulfilled in that a general interest is pursued by carrying out the legal requirement for the regulatory implementation of Law 54/2007, with the necessary regulation being provided to achieve the aims sought, and for the adaptation of legislation to what is stated in the aforesaid Constitutional Court judgment.

c) The principle of proportionality is present in this legal text in that only the matters provided for in the aforesaid Constitutional Court judgment are regulated, and the remaining implementing regulations regarding intercountry adoption are maintained as previously established.

d) The principle of legal certainty is safeguarded by means of clearly determining the responsibilities of the state and those of regional governments in the sphere of intercountry adoption, and the coordination of actions through state and regional participatory bodies, along with general principles safeguarding the rights of citizens in intercountry adoption procedures.

e) The principle of transparency is safeguarded by means of establishing systems for public access to information throughout the procedure and through the creation of a National Register of Accredited Bodies for Intercountry Adoption and of Complaints and Incidents.

f) The principle of efficiency is fulfilled in that an optimal use of material and human resources is sought at all times with a view to achieving this legal text's stated purposes, as is improvement in the quality of the services provided for herein.

This Royal Decree pursues aims of general interest by complying both with the legislative requirement for the regulatory implementation of Law 54/2007, with the necessary provisions for achieving the goals sought, and with Constitutional Court decision STC 36/2021.

Likewise, prior to the drafting of the bill and while it was being processed, active participation by potential target groups was enabled through, respectively, public consultation and public information proceedings, as provided in Article 26(2) and (3) of Law 50/1997 of 27 November, and the aims pursued by this Royal Decree are also justified in its preamble. Finally, this Royal Decree is consistent with the national and international legal order and imposes no unnecessary legal burdens.

During the processing of this Royal Decree, consultations were conducted with the public entities responsible for child protection, accredited bodies, federations of adoptive families and adoptees and also local entities through the Spanish Federation of Municipalities and Provinces. The draft Royal Decree was also reported upon by the State Council of Non-Governmental Organisations for Social Action, the Advisory Council on Intercountry Adoption, the Sectoral Conference on Children and Adolescents, the General Council of the Judiciary, the Fiscal Council and the Spanish Data Protection Agency.

This Royal Decree is enacted in accordance with Articles 149.1.3. and 149.1. 8. of the Spanish Constitution, providing respectively for exclusive state jurisdiction in the fields of international relations and of civil legislation, without prejudice to the preservation, modification and development by regional governments of civil, historic or special rights, if applicable; and in accordance with Article 149.1.1. as regards the regulation of the basic conditions safeguarding the equality of all Spaniards in the exercise and fulfilment of constitutional rights and duties.

By virtue whereof, at the proposal of the Minister for Social Rights and the 2030 Agenda, with the prior approval of the Minister of Finance and the Civil Service, in accordance with the opinion of the Council of State, and following deliberation by the Council of Ministers at its meeting of 4 July 2023,

3. The establishment of the total number of applications to be processed annually in each country of origin shall not affect the adoption of children with special needs, except in cases where the country of origin sets a limit on the number of applications to be processed, the number of applications

For these purposes, the Directorate General shall prepare and send to the members of the Sectoral Committee a report on the adoption situation in the country of origin, which may contain information gathered from the administrative authority responsible for adoptions in the country of origin, from international child protection bodies and from other official sources as considered necessary.

2. In the event of an adoption offer for a country other than the one initially chosen, the submission date of this new offer shall apply in determining precedence. The list shall not include any offers made prior to the decision to start processing applications with a country of origin.

CHAPTER V

Accreditation of bodies

Section 1. Requirements and procedure for the establishment of the maximum number of bodies; withdrawal and temporary suspension of accreditation

Article 15. Criteria for the establishment of the maximum number of bodies liable to be accredited Annually the Directorate General shall, after consulting the Sectoral Committee, establish the maximum number of intercountry adoption mediation bodies that may operate in each of the countries of origin, notifying the competent public entities thereof as provided in Article 151.2 of Law 40/2015.

The following criteria shall be taken into account for determining this number:

a) The information available on intercountry adoption needs in the countries of origin and on the profile of adoptable children;

b) The number of intercountry adoptions made by Spanish residents in each of the countries of origin in the last two years in relation to the number of adoption applications for those countries in this period and the number of bodies for mediation already accredited by other recipient countries. Where the processing of adoptions is being started in a new country, this number shall be determined according to the information available on expectations for adoption with the country, taking account of the number of adoptions made by third parties in the last two years;

c) Any limitation that may be established by each country of origin on the number of foreign entities that may provide mediation services on their territory;

- d) Any requirement that may be imposed by each country of origin to the effect that intercountry adoptions in that country may be processed only through accredited bodies;
- e) The number of Spanish mediation bodies that are currently accredited.

Article 16. Procedure for establishing the number of bodies liable to be accredited in new countries of origin

1. During the first quarter of the year, the Directorate General shall inform the Sectoral Committee of the maximum number of bodies to be accredited by each new country of origin in which it is possible to process new intercountry adoption applications. Where it has been agreed with a particular country that applications will start to be processed outside the first quarter of the year, in the immediately subsequent month and after consulting the Sectoral Committee, the Directorate General shall establish the maximum number of bodies to be accredited for that country and inform the latter thereof.

2. Moreover, within two months of the notice being served to the Sectoral Committee, the public entities concerned may, in the way established by the relevant regional legislation, publish the corresponding announcement for the granting of new accreditations to intercountry adoption mediation bodies that have their registered offices in their territory, for that country of origin.

3. After studying the proposals submitted and issuing the corresponding accreditation decisions for bodies meeting the requirements provided in applicable legislation, the public entities shall inform the Sectoral Committee of the names of the bodies that have been accredited along with their order of precedence, if there are several for a single country, and a report allowing the objective criteria listed in the following paragraph to be assessed. The efficacy of the accreditation issued by the public entity shall be conditional upon the decision taken within the Sectoral Committee, taking into account the order of precedence established following the receipt of accreditations granted by all the public entities that advertised the corresponding invitation within their territory.

4. If, once all the accreditations issued by the public entities have been sent to the Sectoral Committee, the number of accredited bodies exceeds that previously established for any country of origin, the Sectoral Committee shall take account of the following objective criteria in assessing the bodies, after studying the report to be sent by the public entity, on the basis of the documentation provided by the accredited body regarding:

- a) Experience and performance of the body and its members in the sphere of intercountry adoption;
- b) The body's track record in the performance of its activities according to its statutory aims;
- c) Material and personal resources for the performance of intercountry adoption functions;
- d) The body's action plan;
- e) The body's financial approach, taking account of the relationship between service quality and cost.

5. After taking account of the above criteria, the Sectoral Committee shall decide which of the accreditations issued to the bodies by the public entity shall take effect. If the Sectoral Committee deems it necessary to gather complementary information so that a consensual decision may be taken, it may determine that the relevant reports be requested by the Directorate General from the following bodies and entities, to be submitted within one month:

a) From the Ministry for Foreign Affairs, European Union and Cooperation, a report giving details of the past activity, if any, of the body requesting accreditation in the country of origin;

b) From the competent public entity in the territory where the body has its registered office, a report providing, among other aspects, an assessment of the body's staff and, if applicable, an appraisal of its mediation activity in other countries of origin;

c) From other bodies or entities as considered appropriate to supplement the assessment, such as the Technical Committee for Monitoring and Control or the competent public entity in the territory in which the body has previously carried out its intercountry adoption mediation activity.

6. After studying the reports, and consistently with the criteria provided in paragraph 4, the Sectoral Committee shall decide which of the various bodies are to be finally authorised for the processing of adoptions in that country of origin. If there is no agreement within the Sectoral Committee, the assessments and reports on the bodies shall be submitted to the central authority of the country of origin, as provided in Article 7.5 of Law 54/2007, and it shall be asked to choose the bodies with which it prefers to work. Once the selection is complete, the public entities shall serve notice of the authorisation to the corresponding bodies in their respective territories.

7. For countries of origin in which the maximum number of bodies to be accredited has not been covered, after the meeting held by the Sectoral Committee, the public entities concerned shall have three months in which to advertise an invitation for the accreditation of bodies for that country, following the procedure described above.

8. Moreover, in the event that, in a country of origin in which intercountry adoptions are being processed through accredited bodies, any of these should cease to exist owing to unforeseen circumstances, the public entity should report this to the Sectoral Committee. If at that time there are any bodies which, after obtaining accreditation in the previous invitation, could not be authorised for mediation in intercountry adoption, the public entity shall ask the next accredited body in the order of precedence for information allowing it to ascertain that the body continues to meet the requirements as it did when it was accredited. This accreditation shall then take full effect for mediation in the aforesaid country of origin. If there is no body with prior accreditation for that country of origin, the procedure followed shall be that provided in paragraph 7.

Article 17. Transfer of applications between accredited bodies

If any country of origin were to establish a limit on the number of applications to be processed by each accredited body in its territory and it turns out that some of them have no applications to be processed in that country, the bodies may, after informing the public entities corresponding to the place of residence of the prospective adoptive parents, and with the consent of the latter, take on applications that are being processed by other accredited bodies that have a large number of current applications, so as not to unnecessarily delay their completion, if the body which began the processing is in agreement, and without prejudice to the applicable provisions of regional legislation. The body which began the processing must comply with the obligations provided in regional legislation as regards the rescission of the contract signed with the prospective adoptive parents.

Article 18. General requirements for accreditation

Bodies interested in performing mediation functions in intercountry adoption should meet the following general requirements for accreditation, without prejudice to what is provided by applicable regional legislation:

- a) Being a non-profit organisation, legally established and currently registered in the corresponding register;
- b) Having as their corporate purpose, pursuant to their statutes, the protection of children in accordance with the provisions of Spanish legislation and the principles set out in the Convention on the Rights of the Child adopted by the United Nations General Assembly on 20 November 1989, in the Convention on Protection of Children and Co-operation in Respect of Intercountry Adoption, done at The Hague on 29 May 1993, and any other applicable law;
- c) Having their registered office on Spanish territory and an office in the country of origin;
- c) Providing all the mediation services mentioned in the above articles to prospective adoptive parents habitually resident in Spain, in any of its autonomous community;
- e) Being up to date in complying with their tax and social security obligations, as may be checked by the competent public entity by directly consulting the Spanish Tax Agency and General Social Security Treasury, in order to ascertain the relevant information on these matters while the procedure is in progress, provided that the body concerned has given express authorisation for the purpose;
- f) Having a financial plan allowing them to meet the obligations undertaken, to keep accounts in accordance with what is provided in the standard chart of accounts for non-profit organisations and having a head office in Spain with the necessary material resources to ensure that families are adequately attended to.

Article 19. Accreditation procedure

Bodies interested in performing intercountry adoption mediation functions should be accredited by the procedure established in the applicable legislation of the autonomous community where their registered office is located. This region shall be the only one in which any body may submit an accreditation request.

Article 20. Accreditation decision

1. The decision of the public entity accrediting a body for performing intercountry adoption mediation functions shall specify the functions and actions referred to in this regulation and in applicable regional legislation for which it is accredited, along with the country of origin or, if applicable, the region or state thereof for which the accreditation is granted, as well as the authorised costs for the processing of an adoption offer for that country, distinguishing between amounts for indirect costs and for direct costs, as detailed in Article 24.

2. The Directorate General shall report to the Permanent Bureau of The Hague Conference on Private International Law the names and registered addresses of the bodies accredited by the public entities, once the latter have supplied the corresponding information, according to the procedure provided in Article 28.2.

Article 21. Withdrawal and temporary suspension of accreditation

- 1. The public entity that accredited a body for a country of origin may withdraw that accreditation by means of a reasoned decision, issued following a proceeding in which the view of the body may be heard, in the form and in the events provided for in applicable regional legislation, and in all events where any of the following situations arise:

- a) The body ceases to meet the applicable requirements and conditions;
- b) The obligations and/or functions provided for in this regulation are not performed;
- c) It is disqualified by the compatible authority in the country of origin for which it was accredited.

Likewise, the public entity may decide to temporarily suspend the delivery of applications to an accredited body by means of a reasoned decision specifying the suspension period.

2. A body whose accreditation is withdrawn for reasons attributable to itself may not request new accreditation for the country of origin until the period indicated in the applicable regional legislation has elapsed, which shall in all events be no longer than ten years.

3. The Directorate General shall notify the central authority in the country of origin, as well as the Permanent Bureau of The Hague Conference on Private International Law, of the withdrawal of the accreditation of a body by the public entity, once the latter has provided the corresponding information, according to the procedure provided in Article 28.2.

Section 2. Cooperation and mergers between accredited bodies

Article 22. Cooperation and merger agreement between accredited bodies

1. Where two or more accredited bodies sign a cooperation agreement in response to unforeseen situations or in order to better carry out their purposes, they should notify the public entities where each one has its registered office of the detailed content and terms of the cooperation and of the actions corresponding to each body pursuant to the agreement. The public entity or entities concerned shall submit a detailed report on the content and terms of the cooperation to the Technical Committee for Monitoring and Control, within ten business days of the contract being concluded.

2. Where two or more accredited bodies merge, giving rise to a new body with a single legal personality, the new body shall request from the public entity corresponding to the location where it is to establish its head office, which must necessarily be in the autonomous community where one of the merging bodies is accredited, accreditation for intermediation in the country or countries of origin which either/any of the bodies were previously accredited for. Once it has checked compliance with the requirements provided in this regulation and in the applicable regional legislation, the public entity shall directly issue an accreditation decision concerning the new body. The public entity accrediting the resulting body shall report in detail to the Technical Committee for Monitoring and Control on the content and terms of the merger within ten business days of the issue of accreditation.

3. the Directorate General shall notify the competent authorities of the country of origin, along with the Permanent Bureau of The Hague Conference on Private International Law, of the name and registered address of the new accredited body, once the corresponding information has been provided by the public entity granting the accreditation, following the procedure provided in Article 28.2.

Section 3. Basic model contract between accredited bodies for mediation in intercountry adoption and prospective adoptive parents

Article 23. Official approval of the contract

1. The Sectoral Committee shall adopt the approved basic model contract between accredited bodies for mediation in intercountry adoption and prospective adoptive parents, after seeking contributions from the accredited bodies.
